

The June 2nd decision on Media Consolidation should be known to be breaking the Constitutional 1st amendment right of Press. This does not mean the right to own all the media/press, it means the right of the American people to have access to a diverse and dissenting voice. If the FCC ruling goes through in favor of corporate and government interest, then there should be a legal action taken for breaking constitutional law.